

Share Sweet Dreams Some & Dreams have a sleepover with Jack

Jack doesn't like other dogs according to his surrender sheet. Jack was adopted from our shelter quite a while ago, but his dislike of other dogs has landed him back and in need of a new home. Jack may very well be what is referred to as dog-selective which means he just likes who he likes (like most people!). It could be that a submissive female, or an older, calm dog may be very companionable and a meet-and-greet at the shelter would be a great idea.

On the very positive plus side ,, Jack is very people-friendly, enjoying overtures from just about anybody, adults and kids alike. He doesn't have a lot of fast moves that will take you by surprise, since his tubby, low-riding frame permits him to actively sniff the world which is so intriguing to any Beagle mix.

Jack is also housebroken, which is a great start in a new home.

Jack's eyes have a common condition called cherry eye which is strictly cosmetic and does not impact his ability to see at all.

Please consider taking Jack for a break and you will see how sweet he really is.
